

Integrating sustainability risks in the investment decision-process

In an ever so increasingly changing world, with societies being continuously transformed, sustainability is at the core of transformation and at the top of global agendas and priorities.

The main pillars of sustainability relate to environmental, social, governance (“ESG”) and employee-related matters, including respect for human rights, anti-corruption and anti-bribery and should form an integral part of companies’ investment decision-making and business environment.

Leon MFO Investments Limited (the “Company”) aims at embedding such ESG characteristics in its business environment as well as integrating them within its core values. The Company seeks to achieve a balance of economic, social and environmental considerations while maintaining its ethics and values.

The Company is also committed to integrating sustainability risks into its investment decision-making process and in its investment advice, as required by Regulation (EU) 2019/2088 (“SFDR”) and Commission Delegated Regulation (EU) 2022/1288. This includes implementing an ESG management system which, amongst others, aims to mitigate any adverse media, to the extent possible, in relation to any financial product that it manages and/or for financial products for which the Company provides investment advice.

In relation to the consideration of principal adverse impacts, as per the SFDR and Commission Delegated Regulation (EU) 2022/1288, the Company has provided relevant disclosures which are published on this website.

For further information, please refer to the Company’s Sustainability Risk Policy.

22 November 2022