The Fund's objective is to generate consistent uncorrelated returns from investments in a diversified portfolio of hedge funds. The Fund employs a flexible absolute return strategy, with about 50-60% of the portfolio invested in short-term liquid Private Credit strategies with strong collaterals, and the remainder in Arbitrage and other uncorrelated strategies. The Fund prioritizes niche opportunities with direct institutional-level access to managers, building on a vast network accumulated since 2009.

Monthly Commentary

Global equity markets rose by 2.2% in October, with tech and AI continuing to lead the advance. The Federal Reserve lowered its policy rate by 25 basis points at its October meeting, in line with expectations, though the Federal Reserve emphasized that a December cut was not guaranteed. The European Central Bank kept its key interest rate steady at 2.0%, marking the end of the rate-cutting cycle. Eurozone inflation eased to roughly 2.1%, while core inflation (excluding food and energy) remained around 2.4%. As such, EU government bonds remained relatively flat over the month. U.S. 10-year yields declined slightly in October, leading to mildly positive returns for U.S. government bonds.

Our fund's NAV increased by +0.5% in October, bringing the year-to-date performance to +2.7%. The main contributors to the overall positive performance were our global arbitrage funds - benefiting from increasing speculative activity across global markets - and our equity market-neutral funds, which profited from the large equity valuation dislocations seen in October. Among recent investment decisions, we closed our opportunistic Bitcoin position following widespread liquidations across cryptocurrency markets; we may look to re-enter the position at a more attractive valuation. Furthermore, we decided to lock in gains on some of our equity market-neutral funds, as equity markets appear overheated, and we aim to redeploy the proceeds into relatively safer arbitrage strategies. We also increased our allocation to our options-trading fund, as we expect it to continue collecting hefty option premia following the recent spikes in the VIX, and we value the fund's cautious approach to trading during sudden volatility surges. We continue to scout for new ideas and may initiate new hedge fund positions next month.
