Monthly Commentary

U.S. equities were broadly flat in December, with the S&P 500 down 0.1% for the month and up 17.9% year to date. The Federal Reserve cut the policy rate by 25 bps to 3.50%–3.75% as expected, while Chair Powell adopted a more cautious, “wait-and-see” tone for 2026. Stronger-than-expected economic data led markets to reprice the pace of future easing, pushing government bond yields higher and weighing on bond returns; the U.S. 10-year Treasury yield rose 15 bps to 4.17% during the month.

The Fund's NAV declined by 0.4% in December. While several underlying positions generated positive returns, these were outweighed by a small number of detractors. Key negatives included a UK Consumer Litigation Finance strategy, impacted by position-specific write-downs following claims eligibility reviews and the completion of a claims origination phase; a U.S. Consumer Finance strategy reflecting revised loss assumptions amid a challenging consumer credit environment; and a China Internet ETF, which declined during December but has partially recovered in January.
